THE following is an extract from a letter of a British settler at San Juan to the Victoria Standard:

Almost everyone is content with the condition of things, they have come to the conclusion that Uncle Sam is not such a bad man after all. The Governor of Washington Territory was over here a few weeks since, to see into things a little, and I believe he left orders with the commanding officer, not to allow the claims of any British subject to be jumped by anyone, and to protect them in their rights, until they have either declared their intention to become citizens, or have disposed of their property, as they saw proper. Civil law has also been established, and its machinery will soon be in full motion.

That was a terrible scare that con-fronted a Cincinnati cow. She had been wandering about the depot and accidentally overturned a milk can. One glance at the contents was enough for that cow. It threw up its tail, gave a terrified bel-low, and dashed madly against a tel-egraph pole, which neatly took off one of the anima's horns. The cow had never seen such liquid before as was in that can, and it gave her the blues.

WHEN a Maine man has a too talkative wife, he tells her he is going to Amananquatiasogownongotonga hunting, and in his absence has his friends call at the house and inquire his whereabouts. When he returns the faithful wife is exhausted and doesn't want to speak for a

There is only one lady down on rubber bustles. The slippery condition of the Milwaukee flagging the other day necessitated her sitting down with enthusiastic suddenness, and the rebound that followed drove her head through a sixty-dally a horsesse.
